

A Feminist Artwork: 'Cover Her Up'

Cover Her Up by Andi Arnovitz
Screenprinting on Paper
Size: 75cm x 105cm x 0.1cm

This artwork clearly represents the double standards in women and men in terms of dressing up in public which categorizes this screenprinting as a feminist art. Most times, women are told off by men to cover up themselves, hence the multiple leaves covering her naked body, so they would not look slutty or 'asking for it' while men have no problem showing skin out in public and not be shamed by society because it's 'normal' for men.
